

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

WORKS devoted altogether to the display of Armorial Bearings are met with frequently on the Continent. In Germany more especially, where the inheritance of a Shield of manifold Quarterings has ever been essential in the formation of Alliances, and indispensable in the attainment of Honours, the collections are voluminous and authoritative, while in England, although the pride and pomp of Heraldry are hardly less regarded, there has hitherto been no attempt whatsoever to produce a Uniform Collection of Heraldic Engravings, if we except the slight and ill executed etchings that ever and anon disfigure our antiquarian and genealogical literature; why or wherefore, it is now unnecessary to enquire,—sufficient to refer to the existence of such a desideratum, and to state that the “Heraldic Illustrations” have been undertaken to supply it.

His Royal Highness

Prince Albert, of Saxe Coburg Gotha, K. G.

THE Family of Saxe-Coburg is one of the most ancient and illustrious of the Sovereign Houses of Europe. Its Princes, who frequently commanded armies and acquired great military renown, were as eminent in peace as the munificent Patrons of Art, Science, and Literature. Originally Counts of Wettin, they became, by inheritance, Margraves of Meissen and Landgraves of Thuringia: and of the latter potent Race sole Representatives at the decease of HERMANN, Landgrave of Thuringia and EMPEROR OF GERMANY.

The Reigning Duke of Saxe Coburg Gotha is Chief of the Saalfeld Branch of the ERNESTINE Line of the House of Saxony. In that Line the Electorate vested at the decease of Albert III. in 1422, and remained until JOHN FREDERICK, the Magnanimous, was deprived of his dominions by the Emperor CHARLES V. who conferred them, with the dignity of Elector of Saxony, on Duke Maurice of Meissen, Representative of the Albertine branch, and direct Ancestor of the present KING of SAXONY. Thus, but for the misfortunes of the Elector John Frederick, (Prince Albert's immediate Progenitor) the Chief of his House—the Grand Duke of Saxe Weimar—would now be invested with the Sovereignty of Saxony. His Royal Highness PRINCE ALBERT bears for

Arms.—Quarterly, first and fourth, the Royal Arms of the British Empire, differenced by a label of three points, on the centre point a cross gu. Second and third, barry of ten, or and sa. a bend trellé vert, for SAXONY. The QUARTERINGS are very numerous and splendid, including THURINGIA, MEISSEN, CLEVE, BERG, ANHALT, HENNEBERG, &c.

Crests.—The various Cognizances of the House of Saxony.

Supporters.—Two lions ramp. or, crowned ppr. each charged on the shoulder with a label, as in the Arms.

Motto.—Treu und Fest.

Conrad the Great, Count de Wettin,<sup>1</sup> Margrave of Meissen and Margrave of Lower Lusatia, son of Thimo, Margrave of Meissen, and grandson of Theodric II. Count de Wettin, Representative of that distinguished Line, (by Matilda, his wife, dau. and heir of Eckard, Margrave of Meissen,) d. in 1156. This Prince joined the Crusade, and on his return assumed the religious habit: he first granted to the city of Leipsic the privilege of holding two annual fairs.

NOTES.

<sup>1</sup> Some writers deduce the House of Saxony from WITTEKIND, the celebrated Saxon opponent of CHARLEMAGNE, and, though the proof they adduce is not absolutely conclusive, yet as Dietrich, or Theodoric, Count of Wettin, was the undoubted progenitor of the Electors of Saxony, and as Wittekind's descendants did certainly possess the Castles of Zörbeg and Wettin, this presumed descent is most probable. Meissen, the Margravate acquired by THEODRIC II. COUNT OF WETTIN, in right of his wife, Mathildis, sister and heir of Herman, Margrave of Meissen, was anciently inhabited by the Hermanduri and Suardones, and subsequently by the Sorabi or Winithi, a great Sclavonian Tribe, whom the Emperor Henry I. subdued. He annexed the territory to the empire, and its governors were appointed by his successors until OTHO III. made ECKHARD, son of Gunther, first Proprietary Margrave of Meissen. This Eckhard was father of Mathildis, wife of Theodric II. Count of Wettin, ancestor of Prince Albert.

<sup>3</sup> In 1039, the Emperor Conrad II. conferred various Lordships in Thuringia on his kinsman, LEWIS, the Bearded, son of Charles, Duke of Lorraine, and grandson of Lewis IV. of France. Lewis was father of LEWIS II. surnamed the Leaper, whose son Lewis III. Landgrave of Thuringia and Hessen, d. in 1149, leaving a son and successor, LEWIS IV. surnamed Ironside, Landgrave of Thuringia, who m. Judith, dau. of the Emperor Conrad III. and dying in 1172, was s. by his son LEWIS V. surnamed the Pious, Landgrave of Thuringia, who d. s. p. in 1192, and was s. by his brother HERMANN I. Landgrave of Thuringia, who was involved in war with Albert the Proud, Margrave of Meissen. He m. 1st, Sophia, dau. and heiress of FREDERICK V. Palatine of Saxony, and 2ndly, Sophia, dau. of Otto, Duke of Bavaria, and d. in 1215, leaving issue, 1. LEWIS VI. the Saint, Landgrave of Thuringia, who m. Elizabeth (canonized in 1235), dau. of Andrew II. King of Hungary, and dying in 1227, on his way to Palestine, left a son, HERMANN II. who d. s. p. II. HENRY Raspe, Landgrave of Thuringia, elected EMPEROR in 1246, d. s. p. in 1248. III. JUTTA, m. 1st to THEODRIC, MARGRAVE OF MEISSEN, and 2ndly, to Poppo XIII. Count of Henneberg.

<sup>5</sup> These Princes, after governing their country conjointly, according to their father's will, for more than twenty years, finally determined on a partition of their dominions, by which ERNEST obtained the greater part of Thuringen, with the Electoral dignity, and ALBERT, who was one of the most distinguished warriors of his time, acquired Meissen. In this partition originated the distinctions of the ERNESTINE and ALBERTINE line, which still subsist in the House of Saxony.

<sup>6</sup> At the decease of the Emperor Maximilian, in 1519, CHARLES, King of Spain, and Francis I. of France offered themselves as candidates for the imperial diadem. The Electors, however, objecting to both as foreigners, wished to place the crown on the head of FREDERICK the Wise, but that Prince—then far advanced in years—declined the dignity, and gave his support to the King of Spain.

<sup>7</sup> This Elector, a zealous supporter of the Reformation, suffered much from the consequent hostility of the Emperor Charles, who, at length, deprived him of the Electoral dignity, and all his dominions, and conferred them on his cousin, Duke Maurice of Meissen, who agreed to give up Weimar, with some other towns and districts, to the children of the deposed Prince.

<sup>8</sup> Frederick Augustus I. (the opponent of CHARLES XII. of Sweden) had, by the Countess of Konigsmark, an illegitimate son, MAURICE, Count de Saxe, the celebrated Marshal of France, Commander-in-chief at Fontenoy.

<sup>9</sup> The two eldest daughters of Duke Francis of Saxe Coburg Saalfeld are both dead—one was married to Count Mensdorf, an Austrian nobleman, and the other to Duke Charles Alexander Frederick of Wurtemberg.

Colquhoun, of that Ilk and Luss.

THE present Chief of the ancient house of Colquhoun, Sir JAMES COLQUHOUN, of that Ilk and Luss, co. Dumbarton, Bart. bears—

Arms.—Ar. a saltire engrailed sa.

Crest.—A hart's head gu.

Supporters.—Two greyhounds ar. collared sa.

Mottos.—Above the Crest, Si je puis. Under the Arms, Cnock Elachan, being the war cry of the clan.

The Arms of the Colquhouns are stated to have originated thus :—During the reign of one of the early Kings of Scotland, when the turbulent nobles were accustomed to rebellion, and feuds and civil wars were of frequent occurrence, the castle of Dumbarton was in the hands of the insurgents, who refused, when summoned, to give it up. Colquhoun of Luss, being a steady loyalist, received a message from the King, requesting him to retake the castle, and wrote for answer, 'If I can.' Accordingly, after due consideration, he assembled his clansmen and retainers, for a grand stag hunt, fully armed and equipped, as was the custom at that period on such occasions, the hunt being appointed to take place somewhere in the neighbourhood of Dumbarton. The garrison were politely invited to witness the hunt, and having no suspicion that any ruse was intended, they nearly all left the castle. Colquhoun of Luss, in the mean time, taking advantage of their absence, quickly returned, and succeeded in taking the castle. In commemoration of this feat the King granted the Bearings, which have ever since been used by the Colquhouns of Luss.

Huband, of Ipsley, co. Warwick.

THIS family, originally Hubald, derived from Hugh Hubald, who held Ipsley of Osbernus at the time of the Conquest. The chief line, the Hubands of Ipsley, were created Baronets of England in 1660, but are now extinct. The male representation of the family at present vests in GEORGE HUBAND, Esq. M. A. Capt. 8th Hussars, son, by Frances, his wife, eldest daughter of Arthur Chichester Macartney, Esq. of the late Willcocks Huband, Esq. the lineal descendant of Anthony, son of Nicholas Huband, Esq. a younger son of the Ipsley family.

Chaucer.

GEOFFREY CHAUCER, of Woodstock, co. Oxon, the father of English poetry, was a citizen of London, where he was born in the year 1328. He was a gentleman, and appears to have studied at both the Universities of Cambridge and Oxford, and subsequently to have travelled abroad. His rise though is attributable to his connexion with John of Gaunt, Chaucer having married in 1360, the sister of Catherine Swynford, the mistress, afterwards wife of the prince. He first held the place of Valetus, or Yeoman to Edward III.; then that of Gentleman of the King's Privy Chamber, and subsequently, after returning from Genoa, when he was accredited to manage some public business in 1372, Comptroller of the Customs. Chaucer died at the age of seventy-two.

JOHN SHAKESPEARE, of Stratford-upon-Avon, co. Warwick, who, after passing through the regular gradations of municipal offices in that town, became one of its chamberlains in 1561, and bailiff or chief magistrate in 1569; obtained in the latter year a grant of arms from Robert Cooke, Clarenceux, which being lost, was confirmed by Dethick, Garter King at Arms, and Camden in 1599. The confirmation recites that "John Shakspeare, now of Stratford-upon-Avon, in the county of Warwick, Gent., whose parent and grandfather, late antecessor for his faithful and approved service to the late most prudent prince, King Henry VII. was advanced and rewarded with lands and tenements given to him in those parts of Warwickshire, where they have continued for some descents in good reputation, credit," &c. John Shakespeare, who appears to have been a Wool-dealer, married Mary, dau. and co-heir of Robert Arden, of Willingcote, co. Warwick, son of Arden, Groom of the Chamber to Henry VII. who was nephew of Sir John Arden, Knt. Squire of the Body to Henry VII. and grandson of Walter Arden, by Eleanor, his wife, dau. of John Hampden, of the county of Bucks. To Mary Arden her

Long, of Preshaw, co. Hants.

"SABLE, semée of crosses crosslet, a lion ramp. ar." has been for a long series of generations the Armorial Bearing of the family of Long of Wiltshire, settled at a very remote period at Wraxall, and afterwards at Draycot, by marriage with the heiress of Cerne. The Coat bears a strong resemblance to that of the Preux family, "Sa. semée of crosses crosslet or, three lioncels ramp. ar." and supports in some degree the tradition mentioned by Camden of the origin of the Longs, from a younger son of the house of Preux, which was seated at Gidley Castle, co. Devon, soon after the Conquest. The Longs of Preshaw derive from a cadet of the Wraxall family. Their present Representative is WALTER LONG, of Preshaw, Esq. High Sheriff of Hants in 1824, who impales the Arms of Carnegie in right of his wife, Lady Mary Long, eldest daughter of William, 7th Earl of Northesk, G.C.B. Admiral of the Red.

Arms.—Sa. semée of crosses crosslet, a lion ramp. ar. impaling, for CARNEGIE, or, an eagle displ. az. armed and membered gu. charged on the breast with a naval crown gold: over the eagle the word Trafalgar.

Crest.—Out of a ducal coronet or, a demi lion ramp. ar.

Motto.—Pieux quoique preux.

Fowle, of Wiltshire.

THIS family derives from John Fowle, of All Cannings, co. Wilts, Esq. brother of William Fowle, M.A. of Oriel College, Oxford, and Rector of All Cannings. WILLIAM, son of Thomas Fowle, of Market Lavington, co. Wilts, Esq. (by Bridget, his wife, one of the daughters and co-heirs of Richard Legge of Market Lavington aforesaid), bears the Arms here depicted, being grandson of Michael, youngest son of the above John Fowle, Esq. and grand nephew of William Fowle, Esq. formerly of Wiltshire Estate, Jamaica.

Arms.—Quarterly, first and fourth, gu. a lion pass. guard. betw. three roses or, barbed and seeded ppr. for FOWLE. Second and third, az. a stag's head embossed ar. an annulet for difference, for LEGG.

Rowan, of Mount Davis, co. Antrim.

THE REV. ROBERT WILSON ROWAN, of Mount Davis, co. Antrim, only son of John Rowan of Merville in the same county, Esq. and Eliza Honoria, his wife, eldest daughter of Alexander Macmanus, of Mount Davis, Esq. Lieutenant-Colonel of the Antrim Militia, &c. succeeded, on the death s. p. 4 January, 1838, of his late uncle, Alexander Bryan Macmanus, Esq. only son of the afore-said Lieutenant-Colonel Macmanus, to a portion of the Macmanus estate, and is now the representative of that family, whose arms he quarters. (See BURKE's Landed Gentry.) He married, 30 September, 1824, Anna, second daughter of Joshua Minnitt, of Annabeg, co. Tipperary, Esq. by whom he has issue two sons and a daughter: John-Joshua, born 12 December, 1838; Alexander, born 24 April, 1841, and Eliza Hester.

The Rev. Mr. Rowan quarters on the paternal side the arms of STEWART and REDMOND, with those of ROWAN, and on the maternal side the arms of O'NEILL, KER, and TOBIN, with those of MACMANUS.

Jodrell, of Yeadsley, co. Chester.

YEARDSLEY, in the county of Chester, together with other lands in the adjoining townships of Desley and Rettleshulme, in the same county, were possessed, in the early part of the reign of Edward III. (as appears by several documents now existing) by William Jauderell, who served as Archer in the French wars under Edward the Black Prince (Earl of Chester), and whose great-grandfather owned lands in Derbyshire in the Manor of High Peak, A. D. 1286.

The Arms and Crest still used were borne, together with other quarterings, by his son Roger, for many years one of the four Esquires of the King's body in the reign of Richard II. and are appended in a seal to a grant of land by the said Roger dated 1401, 3 Henry IV.

JOHN GURWOOD, Esq. Deputy Governor of the Tower, Colonel in the Army, and Esquire to Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington, under whom he served during the whole of the Peninsular War and at Waterloo, bears the Ancient Arms of his ancestors, the Gorrewods, Comtes de Pont de Vaux en Bresse, with an honourable augmentation granted to him by the Earl Marshal for having led the successful Forlorn Hope at the assault of Ciudad Rodrigo in Spain, on the 19th of June, 1812.

Colonel Gurwood was born at Hoddesdon, co. Herts, 7th April, 1788, his progenitors having, for seven generations, resided at Barnby Moor and Langton, co. York. Jean de Gorrevod, who served with his cousin, Laurent de Gorrevod, afterwards Comte de Pont de Vaux, under the Duke of Savoy, in fighting against the French at the great battle of St. Quentin in 1557, was wounded and conveyed to Calais, then in the possession of the English. He escaped from that town previously to the surrender of it in 1558, and arrived at Kingestowne-upon Hull, in Yorkshire, where he married and settled at Barnby Moor. His son, John Gorwood, having succeeded to property at Langton, near Malton, belonging to his mother and eldest brother Henry, resided there. Colonel Gurwood is eighth in descent from the aforesaid Jean de Gorrevod. The pedigree is deduced from Guy de Gorrewood, Chevalier, Seigneur de Gorrevod in 1130; and name derived from the Château de Gorrevod, a quarter of a mile from Pont de Vaux, near the river Saone, in the country formerly called La Bresse, which, being one of the conquests of Louis XIV. was ceded to France in 1668 by the treaty of Aix la Chapelle.

Rose, of Kilravock.

THE Family of Roos, or ROSE, was settled in Nairnshire in the reign of King Alexander III. Hugh Rose of Geddes, by marriage with Elizabeth Byset, acquired the lands of Kilravock, and had a Crown Charter of the Barony from King John (Balliol). From that period the estate has descended lineally to the present proprietor, HUGH ROSE, of Kilravock, Esq.; and what is uncommon, every link of the pedigree is proved by documents in public records or in the family charter chest. In 1640 Hugh Rose, then of Kilravock, by a license from the Lord of the Isles, built the present Castle, which stands on the bank of the river Nairn.

The Baron of Kilravock in 1560 used a Seal of the Family Arms, with the inscription "S. hugonis ros baronis," a style very unusual in Scotland, but which seems to have been adopted by many of the Lairds of Kilravock.

Cognoies toy même. (Know thyself.) The old exhortation of Thales. Braddyl, of Cornished Priory.

"Know then thyself, presume not God to scan,
The proper study of mankind is man."—POPE.

Confido. (I trust.) Boyd, of Middleton Park. Boyd, of Merton Hall.

Conjunctio firmat. (Union strengthens.) Middleton, of Leam.

Conservabo ad mortem. (I will preserve to the death.) Jennings, of the Shrubbery.

Constant and true. Rose, of Kilravock.

Cras mihi. (The morrow for me.) Parbury, of Mansfield House, Russell Square.

Crescent. (They increase.) Tatton, of Withenshaw.

MOTTOES.

Crescit sub pondere virtus. (Virtue increases under affliction.) Chapman, of Whitby.
Cresco per crucem. (I rise through the cross.) Rowan.
Cruce dum spiro fido. (Whilst I breathe, I confide in the cross.) Dyson, of Willow Hall.
Crux mihi grata quies. (The cross a grateful rest for me.) M'Adam, of Ballochmorrie.

MOTTOES.

Fortiter et fideliter. (Boldly and faithfully.) Norton, of Dublin, representing Norton, of Kings Norton. Wilson, of Knowle Hall.

Fortiter gerit crucem. (He boldly sustains the cross.) Allan, of Blackwell Grange and Blackwell.

Fortitudine. (With fortitude.) Moubray, of Cockairny House.

Frangas non flectes. (Thou mayst break, but canst not bend.) Duke of Sutherland.

Fuimus. (We have been.) Kennedy, of Bennane and Finnarts.

Garde ta bien aimée. (Protect thy well-beloved.) Maze, a name which in the old patois of southern France meant my beloved (mazaimée, abridged). An s or z is thus often interposed between two vowels there, as in Somersetshire. At the present day, mise (pronounced mize) means mistress in the dialect of Provence.

“ One sacred right of woman is protection.
The tender flower that lifts its head elate,
Helpless must fall before the blasts of fate,
Sunk on the earth, defaced its lovely form,
Unless your abelter ward th’ impending storm.”—BURNS.

Gaudet luce. (It rejoices in the light.) Galton, of Duddeston, Warley Hall, and Hadzor House.

Go and do thou likewise. St. Luke, x. 37. Colston, of Roundway Park. This motto, borrowed from the parable of the good Samaritan, is borne by the Colston family in commemoration of the eminent philanthropist, Edward Colston, of Bristol.

God be my bede. Beedham.

Bede-house, now antiquated, signified a house of refuge or alms-house, meaning, therefore, God be my refuge.

God shield the right. Crawford, of Newfield.

Hæc aspera terrent. (These asperities terrify.) Moubray, of Cockairny House.

Heb dduw heb ddim dduw a digon. (Without God there is nothing, with God, enough.) Davies, of Eton House. Lloyd, of Plymogg.

Heb nevol nerth nid sier saeth. (Without help from above the arrow flies in vain.) Jones, of Hartsheath.

Homo proponit Deus disponit. (Man proposes, God disposes.) Starkey, of Wakefield.

Honi soit qui mal y pense. (Evil be to him who evil thinks; literally, Unlucky be he who thinks evil thereof.) Order of the Garter.

Honore et amore. (With honour and love.) Grantham, of Ketton Lodge.

Honore et virtute. (With honour and virtue.) Gillbanks, of Whitefield House.

I bide my time. Crawford, of Newfield.

Ich dien. (I serve.) Prince of Wales.

“ The King of Bohemia, who fell at the battle of Crecy, had three ostrich feathers for crest, and this Ich dien for motto. The ensign and legend were adopted by the Black Prince of Wales, the words probably on account of their apt allusion to the good service he did the day of that victory to his royal father and his country; and they have been continued by his successors as a lasting memorial of his triumph.”—BURKE’S Peerage.

I grow and wither both together. Bigg-Wither, of Manydown.

Illumino. (I enlighten.) Farquharson, of Haughton.

Immotus. (Unmoved.) Alston, of Neyland.

In ardua virtus. (Virtue for difficulties.) Leathes, of Herringfleet.

In candore decus. (Beauty in candour.) Chadwick, of Swinton Hall.

In cruce spero. (I hope in the cross.) Allardice, of Ury.

In cruce triumphans. (Glorying in the cross.) Raffles.

In Domino confido. Psalm x. 2. (I put my trust in the Lord.) Walker, of Norton Villa.

“ Yet then from all my griefs, O Lord,
Thy mercy set me free;
Whilst in the confidence of prayer
My soul took hold of thee.”—ADDISON.

Industria et virtute. (With industry and virtue.) Beaver, of Glyngarth.

In omnia promptus. (Ready for all things.) Reay, of Gill House.

In sanguine vita. (Life in blood.) Alluding to the crest—the head and neck of a pelican—which is shedding its own blood to feed its young. Cobbe, of Newbridge.

J’ay bonne cause. (I have good cause.) Botfield, of Norton Hall.

Je crains Dieu. (I fear God.) Whitehurst, of the Mount.

Je dis la verité. (I tell the truth.) Pedder, of Ashton Lodge.

“ I am as true as truth’s simplicity,
And simpler than the infancy of truth.”—SHAKESPEARE.

Je pense a qui pense plus. (I think of him who is the most thoughtful of me.) Rose-Cleland, of Rath Gael.

Justum perficito nihil timeto. (Do what is just, fear nothing.) Rogers, of Yarlinton.

“ Be just, and fear not.”—SHAKESPEARE.

Kymmer yn Edeirniion. Hughes, of Gwerclas, Barons of Kymmer-yn-Edeirniion.

MOTTOES.

Libertas. (Liberty.) Bailey, of Glanusk Park.
Let the deed show. Moubray, of Cockairny House.
Swifter as thou fgnst. Tempest, of Tong Hall.
Lux mea Christus. (Christ my light.) Newman, of Thornbury Park.
Mala prævsa pereunt. (Evils foreseen cease to exist.) Hodges, of Hemsted.
Mallam mori quam fœdari. (I would rather die than be disgraced.) Gilbert, of Devon.
Malo mori quam fœdari. (I had rather die than be disgraced.) Prior, of Rathdowney.

"Here, on my knee, I beg mortality,
 Rather than life preserved with infamy."—SHAKESPEARE.

Mane prædam vespere spoliū. (The stag, hunted in the morning, becomes the spoil of the evening.) Hurt, of Alderwasley.
Manu forti. See Exodus, xiv. 14. (With the strong hand.) Boyd, of Middleton Park.
Manus hæc inimica tyrannis. (This hand hostile to tyrants.) Hemsworth, of Shropham Hall.
 The whole passage which refers to Brutus is thus,

"Manus hæc inimica tyrannis
 Ense petit placidam sub libertate quietem."

"This hand, to tyrants hostile ever,
 Grasps the sword that makes it free,
 And seeks, intent their bonds to sever,
 Gentle rest in liberty."

The Latin lines are more generally known as having been written by Algernon Sydney in the album of the Copenhagen University, where he was delegated in 1660, to negotiate a peace between Denmark and Sweden. The French ambassador, Terlon, who was employed on the same pacific mission, tore the leaf from the book.

Marte et mari faventibus. (The war and the sea permitting.) Morris, of York.
Mea dos virtus. (Virtue my dowry.) Meadows, of Great Bealings.
Mea fides in sapientia. (My faith in wisdom.) Fryer, of the Wergs.
Memor esto majorum. (Let him be mindful of his ancestors.) Farquharson, of Haughton.
Militia mea multiplex. (My warfare manifold,) words used by Caius Marius. Tooke.
Miseris succurrere disco. Virg. Æn. 1. (I learn to succour the unfortunate.) Soltan, of Little Efford.

Moderata durant. (Moderate acquisitions are lasting.) Staunton, of Longbridge.
Mone sale. (Advise with wit.) Monsell, of Tervoe.
Moriens cano. (Dying I sing.) Cobbe, of Newbridge. Allusive to the swan in the Arms.

"He makes a swan-like end,
 Fading in music."—SHAKESPEARE.

Mort en droit. (Death in the right.) Drax, of Charborough Park.
Mutare vel timere sperno. (I disdain to change or to fear.) Bythesee, of the Hill.
Natale solum dulce. (My native land is dear.) Taylor, of Todmorden Hall.
Ne tentes aut perice. (Attempt not or accomplish.) Faunce, of Sharsted.
Nil desperandum auspice Deo. (Nothing is to be despaired of under the auspice of God.) Anderson, of Jesmond House.
Niti facere experiri. (To endeavour, to do, to experience.) Caldwell, of Linley Wood.
Noli me tangere. (Touch me not.) Græme, of Garvock.
Non nobis. (Not to us.) Woodd, of Yorkshire.
Non nobis sed omnibus. (Not to us, but to all.) Ashe, of Ashfield.
Non sibi. (Not for oneself.) Cleland, of Rath Gael House.
Nubem eripiam. (I will remove the cloud.) Shipperdson, of Piddingham.
Nullius in verba. (To the words of no man.) Gabb, of Monmouthshire.
Omnia bene. (All's well.) Harvey, of Castle Semple.
Omnia vincit amor. Virgil, Ec. x. 59. (Love subdues all things.) Rodick of Gateacre.

"In hell, and earth, and seas, and heaven above,
 Love conquers all; and we must yield to love."—DRYDEN.

Per mare per terras. (Through sea, through land.) M'Alester, of Loup.
Persevere. Burrard, bart.

"Perseverance, dear my lord,
 Keeps honour bright."—SHAKESPEARE.

Pour jamais. (For ever.) Colonel Gurwood.
Prenez haleine tirez fort. (Take breath, pull strong.) Giffard, of Chillington.
Pieux quoique preux. (Pious though valiant.) Long, of Preshaw. See annotations to Platæ XXVIII.
Pro patriâ. (For my country.) Higgins, of Trafalgar Park.

MOTTOES.

Pro rege. (For the king.) Porcher, of Clyffe.

Pro rege, lege, grege. (For the king, the law, the people.) Bigg-Wither, of Manydown. Ponsonby, of Hale Hall.

Quod facio valde facio. (What I do, I do with energy.) Sykes, of Highbury.

“Cæsar, after the triumph of Pharsalia, and in the plenitude of his power, heard, says Plutarch, the defence of an African Prince, a follower of Pompey, by Brutus, when struck with the ardour of the advocate's feelings and language, the dictator remarked: “I know not always what this young man desires, but whatever he wishes he wishes intensely.”
Ἦλὼν δὲ οὐ βούλεται σφοδρὰ βούλεται. (Plutarch, Life of Brutus, cap. vii.)

Quod justum non quod utile. (What is just, not what is useful.) The maxim of the Stoics. Recte faciendo neminem timeas. (In doing rightly thou needst fear no one.) Robertson, of Inches.

Reparabit cornua Phœbe. Ovid's Metamorphoses, lib. i. 11. (The moon will renew her horns.) Scott, bart.

Salus per Christum. (Salvation through Christ.) Forbes, of Culloden. Forbes-Leith, of Whitehaugh.

Semper paratus. (Always ready.) Leckey, of Bally Holland House. Welles, of the Grange.

Semper sapit suprema. (His knowledge is ever of heavenly things.) Selby, of Biddleston.

Semper sidera votum. (The heavens always my wish.) Rattray, of Barford House.

“The pious man
 In this bad world, when mists and couchant storms
 Hide Heaven's fine circlet, springs aloft in faith,
 Above the clouds that threat him, to the fields
 Of ether, where the day is never veil'd
 With intervening vapour.”—KIRKE WHITE.

Servabo fidem. (I will preserve my faith.) Johnson, of Runcorn.

Shanet a Boo. (Shanet to victory.) Fitzgerald, Knight of Glin.

Si je puis. (If I can.) Colquhoun, bart. For an account of this motto refer to the annotations of Plate X.

Sinceritate. (With sincerity.) Franklin, of Gonalston.

Soies content. (Be content.) Charnock, of Charnock.

Sola salus servire Deo. (To serve God is the only means of salvation.) Hibbert-Ware, of Edinburgh.

Toujours gai. (Ever gay.) Gay, of Thurning Hall.

Towton. Mathew.

Transfigam. (I will transfix.) Colt, of Gartsbarrie.

Triū juncta in uno. (Three joined into one.) The motto of the Order of the Bath.

On the accession of James I. to the English throne, and union, in his person, of the three kingdoms (regna) these expressive words implied the event; they have also been used to represent the concentration of the cardinal virtues, faith, hope, and charity, all three in the one and last, according to Scripture, (St. Paul, Corinth. i. 13.)

Treu und fest. (True and faithful.) H. R. H. PRINCE ALBERT.

Turris fortis mihi Deus. (God is to me a tower of strength.) Kelly, of Newtown House.
